Telephony Cards

Welcome to the Telephony Cards Home Page.
For installation, Configuration and Troubleshooting information, click on the below installation type:

Install Telephony Card With:
FreePBX let freedom ring	• Select this option if you have FreePBX Distro and want to install/configure your Telephony card • All configuration will be done from the FreePBX WebGUI • This is Sangoma's Plug n Play option for installing Telephony Cards • All Software (telephony card driver, signaling and Asterisk) is bundled together in an ISO Click here to begin -->

Source Install
Software — Asterisk® chan_dahdi
Kernel — DAHDI/Wanpipe
Hardware
	• Select this option if you want to manually install the following components for your Asterisk PBX
	  • Linux Operating system
	  • DAHDI/Libpri signaling software
	  • Asterisk
	  • Configure Telephony card from Linux command line

	Click here to begin -->

API
Customer Application
Signaling/Media/IO API Interface   HW Operation API Interface
Sangoma TDM SDK
Media I/O Tones DTMF
LibSangoma User Space Library   Bchan   Dchan   HW Operation
Sangoma Kernel Device Driver
	• Select this option if you wish to use the telephony card for custom API application
	• This includes:
	  • TDM SDK Tapping
	  • LibSangoma Voice API
	  • Legacy Data API
	  • FreeTDM Signaling and Voice
	  • ADSL Support

	Click here to begin -->

FreeSWITCH	• Select this option if you want to manually install the following components for your FreeSWITCH PBX:
	  • Linux Operating System
	  • FreeTDM Signaling software
	  • FreeSWITCH PBX
	  • Configure Telephony card for Linux command line
	  • Note that FreeSwitch development and support is no longer provided by Sangoma, but the Wiki pages have been left for your reference, and are provided AS-IS only, without any support from Sangoma.

	Click here to begin -->

Windows	• Select this option to manually install the following components for a Windows 10, or below, environment: • Telephony Card Driver, called Wanpipe NOTE: If you currently have NetBorder Express (NBE) installed (Sangoma's PBX Software for Windows) do not follow these steps as your installation will become compromised. Contact our technical Support team (at support. sangoma.com*) if you are having issues with your setup* Click here to begin -->